

VICTIM OF WOMAN'S LIES IS SET FREE

Joseph Raho Discharged by Judge Swann After Miss Wingate Is Quizzed.

COURT TALKS OF PERJURY

Alleged Social Welfare Worker Is Permitted to Go to a Home.

Joseph Raho, the printer who was sentenced to the workhouse for thirty days by Magistrate Krotel in the night court on May 7 on the testimony of Miss Geraldine Wingate, self-styled social welfare worker and literary suffragist, that he had annoyed Ada Miller on the street, had his record set clear yesterday afternoon Judge Swann in General Sessions terminated his sentence at once. The judge's decision was reached after a long examination of Miss Wingate.

"If it were a man who had perjured himself," said Judge Swann in making the printer free, "I would put him in jail. But the law rests so lightly on a woman that the public would justify me in letting her go. The suffragists do not realize how lightly the law rests upon a woman."

"I hope and believe," said Assistant District Attorney Reynolds, "that the result of the inquiry will be that the girl will leave the city."

Miss Wingate has been in the Neurological Institute at 149 East Sixty-seventh street for observation. It was decided there that she wasn't insane. She is slim and sallow, and she wears a brown hat and a black suit with a white lace collar when she was taken before Judge Swann. In the court room were half a dozen young women who were ready to testify that Miss Wingate owed them money for work in connection with some of her "social welfare" activities and another young woman was prepared to swear Miss Wingate had represented herself as her own secretary.

Mrs. Lucy Aiken of 217 Arlington avenue, Jersey City, testified that she had been employed to solicit advertisements for an entertainment given at the Hotel McAlpin by the Social Workers on May 22. She said that "Geraldine Wingate" gave her to understand that the United States Government was investigating the white slave traffic and proposed also to eliminate cheap dance halls. Mrs. Aiken declared she was authorized by Miss Wingate to accept 50 cents and $1 for tickets, if she couldn't get $1.50. Miss Wingate telling her the proceeds would be turned over to the "Winchester Club," the witness said. Miss Wingate kept the $500 collected and insisted she never was paid for her services. Miss Wingate refused to tell Judge Swann her real name.

"I don't wish my folks to know about this matter," she said. "It would disgrace me if my name were known."

"Did you ever live in Chicago?" asked Emil E. Fuchs, counsel for Raho.

"What's that got to do with it?" the young woman snapped back.

"Just this," mildly put in Judge Swann. "A young man was convicted because a Judge believed you told the truth."

"That's not my fault," she replied.

" weren't you arrested for passing a bad check on H. A. Daniels, and didn't you give it back?" persisted the lawyer.

"There may have been such a man."

The woman admitted she never was connected with the United States Government, and Judge Swann asked:

"Who are in the white slave committee you said you belonged to? Are they the same who are in the Winchester Club?"

Miss Wingate refused to tell about the Winchester Club and said she wasn't being treated right.

"I am not going to make a fool of myself for your benefit or for the benefit of the newspaper," she snapped. "You don't seem to be anxious to believe me. You seem to want to condemn me. I can't explain in court so that I can show you I am anything else than what I seem."

Miss Wingate refused to talk about herself or her past when she left the court room with a Miss Hall who is connected with an institution in which Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt is interested in East Fifty-fifth street.

Raho served twenty days of his thirty day sentence. After appealing he was released in $100 bail.

DENIES TEACHER HAD A CHILD.

Mrs. Keen's Attorney Says Her Absence Was Due to Eye Trouble.

Philip Ross, attorney for Mrs. Josephine Wright Keen, a teacher in the Wadleigh High School, who was suspended without pay on Monday by District Superintendent Hardwell, announced yesterday that he would begin a fight to have his client reinstated.

Mr. Ross said that if the Board of Education refuses to act favorably he may take the matter before the Supreme Court.

Mr. Ross said that it is not true that Mrs. Keen has had a child and that that is the reason for her suspension. He said that Mrs. Keen had trouble with her eyes last October and got a leave of absence. Her eyes had not improved enough to permit her to go back to work when the new term began last winter, so she did not report for duty.

Her eyes will be well enough for her to return to her school work on June 9. She notified the board to that effect. It was decided, however, that she had been away from her teaching too long, and she was suspended so the authorities could investigate the cause of her absence. The board can at any time reinstate her with pay for the time she has been under suspension.

ROSENSTOCK DOESN'T HAVE 'EM.

It's Another Man Who Gets Goose Pimples From Fear of Water.

Felix Metzger Rosenstock, a Columbia University student who was reported in yesterday's SUN as suffering from carnoscerinusabitu, and on that account as asking to be excused from his swimming examination, was very much put out because it happens that he is not the man and that a student of the name of William Rosenblatt is the sufferer who asked to have his degree given to him without his taking the examination in nature.

Rosenstock said yesterday that he is a good swimmer and does not get goose pimples from fear of water.

A good friend suggests that to the thousands of college men about to put their oar to the stream of business we ought to say a word about the Economy of good clothes.

That good friend didn't know how popular our clothes are with college men.

We know, because this Spring two of our younger salesmen have been beating it back and forth between a number of the big Eastern Universities, with most pleasant results.

Small wonder with so many attractive patterns in these shapely, soft roll suits.

Nothing "rah-rah-ish," however.

Just smart suits for young gentlemen whose tastes have had a college education.

Sizes 34 to 42 chest; $18 to $40.

Then there's the added comfort of individuality and distinctiveness—a certain indescribable "set" that can never be obtained in ready-made or dress-makers shirts. The materials are charmingly new—selected from our extensive assortment of men's imported shirtings, including French Madras, Crepes, Tub Silks, Piques and Fine Flannels.

Coming from Macy's, of course the prices are about one-fourth lower than elsewhere. We are exhibiting five new models that are especially attractive and unique (in the Men's Custom Shirt Department, Main Floor Balcony).

Shirts of Finest Tub Silk, $7.49

A bit mannish but most modish are these perfectly tailored Shirts of soft, fine Tub Silk with double front pleats, tiny tucks, French cuffs and soft attached collar. The fabric may be had in plain or satin striped white silk or white grounds with lavender, blue, black or multi-colored stripes.

Shirts of Fine Crepe, $4.96

In the mannish, curved bosom of this Shirt are forty-eight tiny pleats giving the effect of solid tucking. The material is the finest of soft Crepes in plain colors or chic striped patterns.

Fine Madras Shirts, $4.96

There are six small box pleats (a careful tailor has arranged them so each pleat has a stripe of the material in the center) in the bosom of these Shirts and of course the cuffs are French style and the collar soft. The imported madras are wonderful in the variety of striped patterns and the soft, fine texture of the fabric.

French Flannel Shirts, $4.96

Just perfectly plain with a jaunty little breast pocket, are these distinctive Shirts, absolutely faultless in line, cut and tailoring. The material is the finest, soft-finished French flannel in plain or stripe patterns.

French Pique Shirts, $4.96

Simple little Shirts that rely on their perfect tailoring, faultless fit and modish lines for their decided individuality and beauty. The fabric used in this Shirt is fine ribbed Pique in plain color or Jacquard stripes in lavender, blue, brown, green, navy or black.

$18.00 Vacuum CLEANERS

SPECIALLY Priced at $11.89

There are two points especially which make this Vacuum Cleaner superior to all others of its type.

It is made of a combination of steel and malleable iron, not of tin and wood, like inferior cleaners. Thus it is strong, rigid and durable to a high degree.

The air exhaust is extremely powerful in proportion to the ease and smoothness of operation. A child can use the Cleaner without undue fatigue, and the suction is sufficiently strong to remove dust, not only from the surface, but from deep in the weave of a rug.

The Cleaner is equipped with three kinds of nozzles, an observation glass and a strong, pliable woven hose.

A demonstration is given daily (in the Macy Basement, 35th St., Rear) to illustrate the superiority of this Cleaner, which Macy's sells for $11.89—or $6.11 less than is asked elsewhere.
